Simple Home Treatment For Objectionable Hairs

(Toilet Talks.) Here is a toilet help you should reember, because it may at some time be the means of saving you from em-barrassment: Quickly and painlessly remove hair or fuzz from chin, lip, or cheek, apply a thick paste made by mixing together powdered delatone and water. Let this remain on the hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and lo! the hairs have vanished. This treatment is entirely harmless, but caution should be used to see that you get delatone.

Leaders of Smart Set Make Debut as Waitresses at Home for Aged.

FRENCH AMBASSADOR PATRON

A unique custom was revived yesterday when scores of prominent people made their way to that district northeast of the Capitol to participate in the annual fete day at the Home for the Aged, con-ducted by the Little Sisters of the Poor. For this day only the 200 inmates were waited upon by the benefactors of the institution instead of by the humble little sisters who perform this service on 364 days of the year.

The dinner served at 12:30 o'clock was worthy of the occasion, and, like the service, was contributed by the friends of the institution, chief among this com-pany being same. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador.

Men and women alike donned the long white aprons that are always supplied by the house, and, on the seating of the old people, immediately began the serving of the dinner, which began with roas chicken and ended with ice cream. There were also "favors," in the form of bags of tobacco and half-pound boxes of candy, distributed at the close of the meal. Mme. Jusserand, who was accom-panied by Mrs. Marshall Field, waited to see the large company seated, also to make a tour of the house. ### GARZIGLIA DRAWS BIG AUDIENCE AT RECITAL

Pianist Gives Individual Interpretation to Works of Modern French Composers.

PROVES SUBTLE PSYCHOLOGIST

Mr. Felix Garziglia gave an interestin piano recital in the Masonic Auditorium yesterday afternoon; interesting in more ways than one. In the first place it was ways than one. In the first place it was a program entirely of modern French composers, and of what is broadly term-ed the impressionistic type of composers. For example, among Mr. Garziglia's interpretative notes on the Debussy numbers. "La fille aux cheveux de lin" is interpreted as "A fight impression of Irish rythm." "Clair de lune" is interpreted as "The dreaminess of moonlight, rolling clouds, calm, quiet, poetic."

For the most part these modern Prench pisno works are akin to the man-

Open harmonles prevail, and whatever melody there is. is sketchy. s sketchy. Exquisite portrayals of mood, of subtle atmosphere: this applier especially to the Debussy piano pictures. Whistler's canvases constantly confront the memory in close comparison.

To say how Mr. Garziglia interpreted this unusual program would be something like giving an opinion on the likeness of a portrait to a person one had never and an occasional work apart, we have The Hon. The planist gave distinction to each; he clothed each piece in its peculiar atmosphere, with what seemed an uncanny consorting with intelligences of quite another world; as if his finger tips had been annointed with a magic delicacy by some fairy Oberon

Mr. Garziglia established for himself in yesterday's performance a quite unques-tioned distinction as a subtle psychologist of piano literature. He was received with enuine enthusiasm by the audience, at the end played as an extra number,
